Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, April 16.

THE IMPEACHMENT TRIAL.

The day has been spent by the counsel for the defense in the presentation of evidence in support of the answer of the President to the articles of impeachment, which was interrupted by the illness of General Thomas to the extent of one day.

A LIST QUESTION.

Mr. Nelson pressed a question designed to show that the President had acted upon the opinion of the Attorney-General in the matter of the removal of Secretary Stanton, and that the Attorney-General had given that opinion before the Supreme Court.

THE STANBERY QUESTION.

The next witness was a messenger of the district telegraph office, who swore that he delivered a letter of Mr. Stanbery's to the President on the morning of the 22d of February.

THE STANBERY LETTER.

The letter was then produced to give in evidence, and was read as follows:

[The letter announced that Mr. Stanbery was unable to be present at the trial, and although he desired and had the advantage of consultation with him, they would not be able to proceed without him.]

MR. STANBERY'S HEALTH.

Mr. Stanbery is better to-day. His disease is recurrent and the attack has been a very severe one. It is hoped that he will be able to be present at the trial on or before Monday, and if not that he will be helpful in answering questions in writing. The counsel for the defense express great unwillingness to attempt to proceed in the absence of Mr. Stanbery.

GENERAL THOMAS'S HEALTH.

General Thomas is also confined to his room with the prostration of the measles, though not yet very ill. He has been able to go out
